I’ve no images – can I just grab photos from the internet?

Development · https://computancy.co.uk/kb/ive-no-images-can-i-just-grab-photos-from-the-internet/

No. You’ll risk incurring a large bill, as there are plenty of lawyers, normally all emplyed by Getty Images, who specialise in identifying unlicensed image use and then billing the site owner - you - for unlawful use.

If we use free or stock images, you’ll be provided with receipts to show their licensing source in case of future queries. We only use reputable stock image companies for photo licences, so issues are unlikely.

You indemnify us against the risk of prosecution when you sign the web build contract, confirming that any images you supply are your own, or you have permission from the owner.

So, please ensure you know the origin of any photos you provide - otherwise, it could cost you far more than the website build cost!