Who pays for the licences for web builders & themes?

Development · https://computancy.co.uk/kb/who-pays-for-the-licences-for-web-builders-themes/

The cost for licensing the software, whether it's Bricks, Elementor, Yootheme, or another platform, is included in your site's build price. This covers access to updates for 12 months following the completion of your site.

After this period, you have the option to renew the licence for an additional 12 months at the developer's cost plus a 10% handling fee. It's important to note that while your site will continue to function without renewal, you will not be able to update it. The developer will block the licence, potentially leaving your site vulnerable to security risks.

For clients enrolled in our maintenance packages, we include the licence cost for as long as we continue to use that software. Should we decide to cancel our Agency Licence, you will have the option to licence the software yourself, or we will propose an alternative solution to ensure your site remains updated and secure.